Greater New York.

The city of Greater New York has an area of 192,850 acres, and contains a population of 3,388,771. There are 1,002 miles of paved streets, 353 miles of water front, and 1,156 miles of sewers. The total value of assessed property is $2,792,546,471. A daily water supply of 330,000 gallons is required, and the net bonded debt is $185,081,850.19, or $57.59 for each man, woman and child. If we include the inhabitants of Jersey City, Newark and Elizabeth, N. J., we have 4,029,517 people to be fed and clothed. Let us suppose each person to consume each day an average of one pint of milk, one ounce of butter, six ounces of meat and eight ounces of flour. These are very low averages, yet they represent the following enormous quantities of food consumed in this comparatively small area:

Per day.	In one year.
Milk, quarts... 201,463	72,539,082
Meat, lbs... 1,505,819	73,539,082
Butter, lbs... 251,845	91,323,425
Flour, lbs... 10,78	3,749,470

It is easy to see what would happen if the average consumption of milk, eggs or meat could be even slightly increased. It will require a herd of 294,156 first-class cows to supply the milk needed in this great city, and 613,823 more than good ones to supply the butter. Calling 125 bushels per acre a fair yield for potatoes, it will require 32,236 acres to provide this vegetable for Greater New York, and 637,367 acres of wheat, averaging 18 bushels per acre, will be needed to provide a year's bread.

If the people in this great city could each be induced to eat an average of one egg every day, it would require 14,708,124 able-bodied hens to egg the city on. These figures apply only to the actual residents. At least 20 per cent. should be added for visitors and those who work in the city and go away at night. Thus it is that this comparatively small area provides a tremendous market for farmers. It is a singular thing that a great majority of those who live here merely handles or makes over what the farmer produces. In other words, the great wealth of New York is made up of slices of value taken from the products of the farmer, lumberman and miners. It all came out of the soil originally.—Rural New Yorker.

The Cincinnati Zoo is in the hands of a receiver, with $80,000 debts and $70,000 assets.

The total cotton crop of 1896-1897 amounted to 8,585,705 bales,

A Contented Family.

We took a ride into the country last Sunday. Away up on the mountain side stood a cabin; the smoke was gracefully curling from the stick chimney. We climbed up to it; there was nothing but mother earth for a floor, no glass adorned the opening called a window. The wife and seven children seemed to be all this mountaineer possessed, but no, he had just returned from his daily hunt and two rabbits lay waiting to be dressed. The children danced in glee; for the time being they were rich. We thought what is wealth any way? It is only comparative and a question of location. Again, what is happiness but contentment. Here was this rude mountain family, rich and happy over the possession of two rabbits. We gave one of the tots a quarter, and over this small gift the whole family seemed convulsed in ecstasy. What are riches? Nothing but a satisfaction of our desires. This family were perhaps richer than a Vanderbilt; they had all they wanted, while a Vanderbilt is continually reaching for more.—Midway Herald.

"From the depth of our heart do we pity the young man or the young woman, who has arrived at the age of manhood or womanhood, who has no ideals of the realities of life, and who is without a trade, calling or profession. The time has come in the history of the world that every one who enters upon the threshold of maturity should be equipped with the necessary qualifications for making an independent livelihood. It is better for a young man to dig coal, split wood, grub sprouts or beat rock, even at 25cts a day, than it is to do nothing and be supported at the expense of old fathers and mothers. We will say what we have said in time past, the Lord has never yet created a human being that was to good to take hold and do any kind of honest work. Any occupation is preferable to that of loafing and sponging.—Madisonville Hustler.

A priest ran away from Elizabeth, N. J., to avoid receiving a purse containing $2,500 in gold in honor of his twenty-fifth anniversary as priest.

The largest dog in the world is Nero, owned by Wane Bailey, of Rutland, Va. He weighs nearly three hundred pounds, and measures six and a half feet from tip to tip.

An Old Minister.

A special from Perryville to the Louisville Dispatch says: One of the most remarkable men in this vicinity is Rev. William May, who resides about two miles west of here on a farm which he purchased over thirty years ago. He is now nearing his 87th birthday and is yet bold and hearty. He has twelve living children, forty-eight grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren. He has been proclaiming the gospel according to the Methodist doctrine for fifty years and has never accepted one farthing for his services, rather preferring that kind of treasure that "moth nor rust doth not corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal." During his ministerial career he has married over 2,100 couples, and has ventured on the matrimonial wave himself three times. He is also somewhat of a veterinary surgeon, having in his time administered medical aid to over 25,000 animals, with a comparatively small loss. He has never been on board a train, and he invariably travels on horseback, having once made a trip from Missouri on horseback. The route which he came covered over 600 miles, and he rode it in sixteen days.

This grand old gentleman is a democrat of the strongest faith, and is an ardent admirer of Mr. Bryan, claiming that he will be the next president and the forerunner of good times.

An exchange says that a set of swindlers are sending out circulars promising "in order to introduce the goods," to send to any address postage prepaid, ten yards of red, brown or green silk for $1. The eager victims, who are many, receive ten yards of silk from the spool.

John J. Lewis, a Leslie county man, denounces the reports sent out from Middlesborough, Pineville and Barbourville about Leslie county killings as misrepresentations and worse. He says that from May 1, 1897, to February 1, 1898, twenty-three killings were reported from Leslie, when in reality only four men went the Winchester route. He says that there are no "moonshine resorts" or "blind tigers" in Leslie, and that all reports of battles at such places are "fakes."

"You don't mean to say, Bumby, that you paid $150 for that suit?"

"Well, I should say not. I had it charged."

Professor Snell says that the age of fish is almost unlimited. As to the length of the life of fish, it is said the ordinary carp, if not interfered with, would live about five hundred years. He says that there are now living in the Royal Aquarium, in Russia, several carp that are known to be over six hundred years old, and that he has ascertained, in a number of cases, that whales live to be over two hundred years old. The ordinary goldfish has also been known to live over one hundred years.

Cage Muse, the king of Kentucky moonshiners, is now in the cage again. He makes the following statement: "Louisville, (Ky.) Jail, Jan. 19, 1898. I have made 15,000 of moonshine whisky in twenty-two years. I have been arrested thirty-three times and have fought twenty-three battles with the revenue officers. I have served in every government prison in Kentucky and one term in Missouri, and also one term in Topeka, Kan.—C. C. Muse.

Troy Puckett was tried at Irvine Monday for damaging the road between this place and John Tuttle's farm by making unusual use of same. He was acquitted.

Joe McKinney is now a candidate for matrimony. He says he don't mind getting the mittens and would be delighted with a Stone.

At Andrew J. Curtis' sale yesterday household and kitchen furniture sold well and other things sold reasonably well. One aged milch cow brought $25.15.

W. E. Heflin, a hustling farmer, living in the edge of town, is having a large number of rails split and making preparations for farming this year on a large scale.

An engagement ring is one a girl puts on her finger to show off before the other girls. A wedding ring is one a woman puts on her finger to remember something by and then forget what it was.

Curtis Lacy was arrested by George W. Drake deputy U. S. marshal at Hazel Green Tuesday on the charge of selling whisky without license. Hazel Green has been without open saloons for fifteen years.

Mr. Taudy Burris, of Gibson, Illinois, and Miss Alice Hall, of Little Hardwick's Creek, were married at the residence of A. J. Curtis, near this place, yesterday morning. Mr. Burris will leave for Illinois with his young wife on the 28th. Rev. B. Frank Wright was the officiating minister.

Spoutspring is not a city of 5,000 inhabitants, nor one of 1,000, but we have a nice, quiet, orderly little village, filled up with only good neighbors, but two things are yet lacking to complete its convenience, and that is gravelled streets and more sidewalks.

W. J. Christopher has just received 10,000 pounds of flour, and customers will find his prices right on this staple article. He has for some time been leading in low prices on flour, selling from 10 to 30 cents lower on the hundred pounds than any dealer here or at Clay City.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Mamie Hume, the pretty daughter of Mr. P. L. Hume, of Irvine, to Mr. Leonard A. West, a talented young lawyer and the present efficient County Attorney of this county. They will be married at Irvine Wednesday, February 23.

The Times extends congratulations in advance.

We call attention to the change of E. V. Curtis' advertisement. Blacksmith and Wood work, Vienna, Ky. Mr. Curtis is a good workman and works reasonably cheap.

Rev. S. M. Carrier, the pastor, will preach at the Methodist church Sunday morning. We hope to see a good crowd out. Nothing is more encouraging to the pastor than large and attentive congregations.

Kind old lady—"Poor man! You look as if you had seen better days."

Mr. Willie Deadtired—"I have, madame. Once I dwelt in granite halls."

Kind old lady—"And why this loss of such a home?"

Mr. Willie Deadtired—"My term expired."

There seems to be a class of people in the world that want all favors and never give any. It is all right to give them 50 per cent. profit on an article, but when it comes to pay the printer wages to set up an advertisement, or even to subscribe for his local paper, they complain of exorbitant charges.

The weather of this week, as well as that of last week, except a few days of blustery weather, has been very fine, so farmers have been busy and therefore trade has been a little dull and news scarce.

Andrew J. Curtis will leave with his family for Gibson, Illinois Monday week. He will make this state his future home.

R. R. Perry has been appointed postmaster at Winchester.

A Federal law has gone into effect concerning which the average citizen knows but little.
It is an act, approved March 3, 1897, providing that gold and
silver coins shall not be mutilated,
defaced, diminished, falsified,
seized or lightened, and a penalty of five years imprisonment
and a $2,000 fine is fixed for such offense. It is also contrary to attempt to pass any coin that is disfigured or lightened,
the same penalty being prescribed for this offense as for the other. Hereafter the possessor of a perforated or mutilated coin must not attempt to pass it, even for a less sum than its face value. Beware of bad coins; they may get you into trouble. This law applies, it is presumed, to church contributions
for preachers.—Eminence

is a railroad man of Dallas, Tex.
Years ago he left his home in Brooklyn, Mo. For a while he kept up communication with his mother by letter. Then he ceased writing and for years his friends had supposed he was dead.
Not long ago he bought a Post-Dispatch for a cent. In it read that his mother had died, leaving $10,000 in St. Louis property to him if alive; if not to other kinds
men.

Sent Back Pension.

A correspondent from Washington says: Pension commissioner Evans recently received from a pensioner in San Antonio,
Tex., an express order for $879.
It was money which the sender
believed he had not properly received, and animated by his feelings, had returned it to the government. Mr. Evans had an investigation made of the case,
and ascertained that the pensioner was honestly entitled to the money he was receiving, viz.: $12 per month for deafness, and directed the entire amount to be returned to him.

Because her sweetheart, Ben McMurtry, told her he was going away and she would never see him again, pretty Lillian Horner,
of Fayette county, attempted suicide by shooting herself through the breast with a revolver.

It is said J. L. Oldham, formerly of the Elkton Times, will start a weekly paper at Trenton.
